

CONTENTS

Foreword

Acknowledgements

Introduction

1. Environments are not inherently good or bad. Professional quality and client involvement in child and youth care services
Fop Verheij, Erik J. Knorth & Peter M. Van den Bergh

Part I: Quality Enhancement

2. Improving quality of care in residential settings in Israel through the RAF method
Tamar Zemach-Marom, Rachel Fleishman & Zvi Hauslich
3. Quality criteria for child and youth care in the Netherlands
Daan Wienke
4. Quality enhancement in Dutch child protection agencies: A new method of investigation
Bas O. Vogelvang, Pauline Kuipers & José Hermans
5. Family education as a profession. New impulses for an understanding of the profession and for the qualification of educational staff in a family environment
Rosa Heim

Part II: Empowerment

6. Family Group Conferencing in the Netherlands
Rob Van Pagée, Jan Van Lieshout & Job Van As
7. Listen to our life stories. Empowering children to heal and learn through their own voices
Carol S. Kelly & Kathleen Van Antwerp
8. 'Listen to me and don't think we know best...' About clients who train their professional child and youth care workers
Joost Geurts & Jean Knooren

Part III: Family involvement

9. Essential elements of early prevention services for families at risk of child physical abuse and neglect
Liesl Geeraert, Hans Grietens & Walter Hellinckx
10. An intensive family preservation program for children in dysfunctional families. The case of the Goodwill Social Work Centre in Madurai
Christopher J. Daniel
11. Disempowerment of parents as an effect of residential child and adolescent psychiatry. The case of the RMPI in Barendrecht
Walter H. Oppenoorth & Maarten G. Spaander
12. The residential home, the child and its family. The case of the Child and Family Centre in Udby
Steen M.L. Lassen
13. Better With Home? The case of Amstelslad Youth Care in Amsterdam
Pauline M.H. Naayer

Part IV: Child care in Romania and Poland

14. Residential and inpatient child and youth care in Romania. Impressions of an outsider
Fop Verheij
15. The effect of institutional deprivation in Romanian children's homes
René A.C. Hoksbergen, Cor Van Dijkum & Felicia Stoutjesdijk
16. The beginning of parent-institution partnership in the Romanian residential child care centre Cluj-Napoca
Lidia Berszán
17. Does Poland need child and youth suicide prevention programs?
Karolina Krysinska

List of contributors